JEKKVON

Front-End Developer

Kazakov Vyacheslav

I am a user interface developer, currently living in Boryspil, a town on the outskirts of Kyiv (Ukraine). I like the idea of working in a team, I think it's a way to learn new skills and bring your knowledge to the team to improve productivity in developing a digital product. I enjoy discovering new things every day and being a valuable asset to any team I work in, so I'm constantly learning and exploring new trends. I try to get as much feedback on projects as possible to improve and create projects that are not only aesthetically pleasing, but also accessible and functional, so I like to work closely with stakeholders. Let's talk!
